

WEDDINGS

Do You Take This Blockhead...?

Though not as lavish as the February, 1863 wedding of sideshow dwarfs Tom Thumb and Lavinia Warren, the wedding reception for Kiva Szczepanski and Fred Kahl (a.k.a. The Human Blockhead) of Sideshows at the Seashore promises even more of a circus.

THE CEREMONY

After exchanging their vows at seaside, the couple will lead an expected 350 guests in a procession to the carousel and ride one of its horses together; in carnival folklore, riding a horse with your beloved demonstrates commitment.

THE ENTERTAINMENT

A contortionist, a trapeze artist, accordion and harp players, and Mr. Spoons, who, Mr. Kahl says, plays the utensils "on your arms and head," will perform in the sideshow's theater.

THE HONEYMOON

Three days, somewhere within driving distance.
